Transfers

- From Silvio Pettrossi Airport to hotels:
 - Taxis: Official airport taxis offer fixed rates to almost all hotels in Asunción. The approximate cost is USD 20-30. Taxis are booked at the counter, where you can also pay if you need a receipt. Payment is also possible by international credit card. The approximate cost is 100,000-200,000 guaraníes, equivalent to 15-25 EUR.

- Uber: this app operates in Asunción and offers a convenient and often cheaper alternative. The approximate cost is USD 5-10.
- Private transfers: Private transfers can be booked in advance directly with your hotel, or through travel agencies and specialized companies.
- Public transport services: Urban bus service does not extend to the airport. There is only one bus line that has a stop outside the airport grounds, but it does not operate 24 hours a day.
- From the hotels to the event venue:
 - Taxis and Uber: Available throughout the city. Mobile apps can be used for convenience and security (ie: Uber). Taxis can be requested at the hotel reception or by calling +595021 311080 - Taxi Radio de Asunción.

Weather and Temperature

- During June, Asunción experiences mild weather, with average temperatures ranging between 15°C and 25°C. Occasionally, temperatures can be higher.
- It is recommended to bring light clothing for the day and a jacket or sweater for the evening.
- It is best to check the weather forecast 7 to 5 days prior to the event date, as variations are possible.

Security

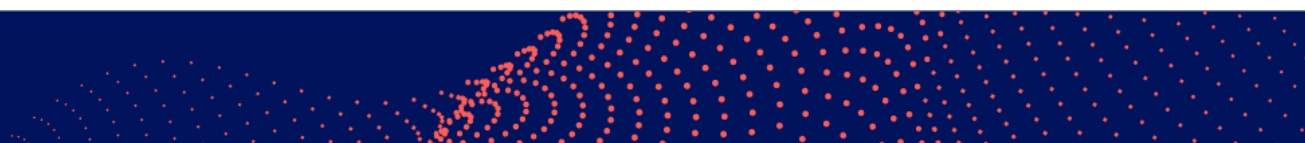

Paraguay generally offers an acceptable level of security. Crimes against tourists are very rare.

However, it's important to observe the safety precautions inherent to life in large cities (more than a million people). It's important to keep in mind that most reports take place at night in the city center and in certain neighborhoods and outlying towns.

It is recommended to take common precautions, such as not displaying valuables in public and being vigilant about your belongings at all times.

Medium risk areas

- Areas within Asunción: Extreme caution should be exercised at night in the city's historic center, in neighborhoods such as Bañados Norte and Sur, near the Cateura landfill, and in outlying towns, on public transportation (buses), and in certain crowded areas, such as Mercado Cuatro, where travelers should be extra careful with their valuables. Visiting the Chacarita neighborhood (in the city's historic center) is not recommended, even during the day.
- Ciudad del Este: This city on the border with Brazil has high rates of insecurity. Given the crowds on the streets during business hours, travelers should be extra careful with their valuables. When businesses close (after 5 p.m.), caution is recommended when walking around the city.

- The city of Pedro Juan Caballero, in the Department of Amambay, has higher crime rates than other areas of the country.
