1.2 Summary of the Action

Transitional justice (TJ) is a relatively new discipline that relates to judicial and non-judicial processes and mechanisms by which societies deal with mass human rights and international humanitarian law (IHL) violations and abuses. As national governments and regional organisations adopt related policy frameworks, TJ becomes more institutional and is being mainstreamed in larger human rights, conflict prevention and forced or arbitrary displacement, peacebuilding and democratisation policies. Several African countries have already initiated some forms of TJ after episodes of violence (such as Nigeria, Democratic Republic of the Congo, Central African Republic, or Zimbabwe) but need further support to implement those policies or operate TJ mechanisms in order to stabilize. Others are still entrenched in conflicts or try to emerge out of them (Libya, Sudan, Somali etc.) and have yet to design reconciliation and reparation policies as well as transitional mechanisms. As for the current turbulences in Mali, Ethiopia, Chad and Guinea, they further underscore the urgency to invest more in this area of work.

The purpose of this action is to support the domestication and implementation of the African Union Transitional Justice Policy (AUTJP)¹, whose development took place over eight years by means of extensive consultations with a wide number of policy and human rights professionals as well as representatives from academia, CSOs, youth and women groups. It was adopted by the African Union (AU) General Assembly in February 2019. The subsequently developed Roadmap for the implementation of the AUTJP was then adopted in May 2020².

The EU was the first regional organisation to adopt a dedicated policy framework on TJ in November 2015³. The EU's and AU's policies on TJ have sufficient common ground to deepen their partnership in this field. The topic was discussed during the recent rounds of the EU – AU Human Rights Dialogue (2019, 2020, 2021), and one of its outcomes was precisely to hold a joint expert workshop on promoting the AUTJP in Africa, which ultimately took place in early October 2021.

This action will support the operationalisation of key elements of the AUTJP and its Roadmap, adequately addressing gender-based violence and providing technical assistance to key AU organs, Regional Economic Communities (RECs) and some AU Member States to design and operate tailored gender sensitive TJ mechanisms in specific post-conflict contexts. It shall also support research and knowledge production and management efforts related to TJ in Africa and contribute to the popularisation of the AUTJP and its monitoring by involving civil society actors.

This action will be implemented via a direct grant to a consortium of European-based and African organisations with specialised expertise in TJ and existing operational collaboration on TJ with the AU, some RECs and AU member states. The envisaged consortium could include the International Center for Transitional Justice (ICTJ), the African Transitional Justice Legacy Fund (ATJLF), and the Center for the Study of Violence and Reconciliation (CSVR), as well as additional research centres and specialised agencies notably among African francophone NGOs.

This action responds to the EU policy priorities as set out in the Global Strategy for the EU's Foreign and Security Policy⁴, the Joint Communication "Towards a comprehensive strategy with Africa"⁵ adopted in March 2020, the EU Action Plan on Human Rights and Democracy 2020-2024⁶ (and in particular its section 1.6. 'Closing the accountability gap, fighting impunity and supporting transitional justice), and the EU Gender Action Plan III⁷ (GAP III). Moreover, it will respond to the future Youth Action Plan⁸. It is aligned with priority 2 "Governance, Peace and Security, Culture" of the Sub-Saharan - Regional Multiannual Indicative Programme 2020-2027 and specifically refers to 1.1 ("Continental and regional frameworks for democratic governance, the rule of law, human rights, accountability, and inclusive and equal societies are strengthened and implemented")⁹. Besides, it contributes to SGGs 16 (governance, including access to justice for all), 5 (gender equality), and 17 (partnerships for the Goals).

2 RATIONALE

2.1 Context

Despite socio-economic and political progress in Africa in the last two decades, significant challenges continue to stand in the way of African countries achieving sustainable peace and leveraging the full potential of the continent's abundance of resources. Past and recurring domestic and regional conflicts throughout the continent are recognized by the Assembly of the AU as a major challenge to the continent's further socio-economic development. For societies which have experienced conflict and massive human rights and international humanitarian law violations, sustainable development and peace will be more attainable if justice for past violations is pursued. TJ provides an adaptable framework under constraints of scale and fragility to find nuanced, effective, innovative, and context-specific responses to an expanding scope of rights violations and situations as well as obstacles to justice.

When TJ implemented in a holistic and participatory manner, TJ processes can contribute to reinforcing gender equality, foster trust in the state and among citizens, respect for rule of law and human rights and set the stage for a more inclusive and democratic societies while preventing recurrence of violations. A deficit in democratic governance is one of the structural root causes of conflicts and underdevelopment in Africa identified by the AU. Moved by the experiences of wars and conflicts in the 1990s, national, regional and continental institutions have developed judicial and non-judicial mechanisms to deal with political violence and the legacies of conflict.

TJ models include truth and reconciliation commissions, legal and traditional mechanisms, reparations and security sector reform. Within these, many gender-related issues needs to be adequately highlighted, including addressing high levels of gender-based violence during conflict and recognising the roles that women play beyond that of victim. It is crucial to examine how gender inequalities underpin much of the violence taking place.

In 2019, the 32nd Ordinary Session of the Assembly of the AU adopted the African Union Transitional Justice Policy (AUTJP), which is inspired by African values, lessons learned, best practices, and related norms, as well as the AU's determination to promote accountability and eradicate impunity. The policy is aimed at providing AU member states with a continent-wide guide on effective and credible TJ processes that will help them achieve sustainable peace, justice, reconciliation, social cohesion, and healing as well as promote security, human rights, respect for international humanitarian law, and an end to impunity. Crucially, the policy seeks to contribute to the realization of Aspiration 3 of the African Union Agenda 2063 for "an Africa of good governance, democracy, respect for human rights, justice and the rule of law", Aspiration 4 "a peaceful and secured Africa" and Aspiration 6 "people-driven development, especially women and youth".

The AUTJP contains strategic proposals for an African approach to designing, implementing, monitoring, and evaluating TJ processes in AU member states based on fundamental principles and indicative elements of transitional justice. The responsibility for its implementation falls with various actors such as Regional Economic Communities (RECs) and AU organs as well as AU member states, non-state actors (NSAs), including civil society organisations (CSOs) as primary implementers at the national level. Notably, the AUTJP encourages the design and implementation of transitional justice measures to address root causes of conflicts, legacies of violence and gender and human rights and international humanitarian law violations, gaps in democratic and good governance, and developmental challenges in Africa. Acknowledging the gap that exists between development and implementation, the AU Commission (AUC) has developed a roadmap with concrete steps and interventions to support AU member states and RECS to implement the AUTJP in a timely, coordinated, and effective fashion. The roadmap prioritizes technical expertise, innovation, research and knowledge generation, partnerships, and multi-stakeholder cooperation in the implementation of the policy.

Several African countries have already initiated some forms of TJ after episodes of violence (such as Nigeria, Democratic Republic of the Congo, Central African Republic, or Zimbabwe) but need further support to implement those policies or operate TJ mechanisms in order to stabilize. Others are still entrenched in conflicts or try to emerge out of them (Libya, Sudan, Somalia, etc.) and have yet to design reconciliation and reparation policies as well as transitional mechanisms. As for the current turbulences in Mali, Ethiopia, Chad and Guinea, they further underscore the urgency to invest more in this area of work. The AUC has already managed to take a number of steps toward implementing the Roadmap. It deployed a few needs assessment missions in some AUMS, prepared practical guidelines for implementing the policy (expected to be validated in 2022), and provided training to youth on TJ which led to the creation of a related youth platform.

By supporting the implementation of the AUTJP as a continental framework providing guidance to AU member states emerging from violent conflict or repressive regimes on the design of reconciliation and reparation policies and establishment of adequate transitional mechanisms, this action intends to bear impact on human rights, respect for international humanitarian law, conflict prevention, peacebuilding and democratisation policies at large in Africa. As such, it pursues post conflict stabilisation objectives, rooted in the promotion and protection of human rights, and fosters a democratic culture based on respect for the rule of law and for social equality considered as a factor of resilience. It encourages the structured engagement of women and youth via the dedicated continental TJ platforms.

This action thus complement other existing EU support to the African Governance Architecture (AGA) notably via the provision of substantial financial and technical assistance to five AU organs involved in the promotion and protection of human rights and democratic governance, and to the Department for Political Affairs, Peace and Security at the AUC, whose recently restructured division in charge of conflict prevention and governance hosts the AGA secretariat and leads on transitional justice policy setting and implementation. More generally, the EUR

25 million AGA support project promotes institutional strengthening and coordination as well as citizens' engagement at continental level among AU organs.

2.2 Problem Analysis

The development of the AUTJP took place over eight years by means of extensive consultations with a wide number of policy and human rights professionals as well as representatives from academia, civil society organisations (CSOs), youth and women groups. It was adopted by the AU General Assembly in February 2019. The subsequently developed Roadmap for the implementation of the AUTJP was then adopted in May 2020. Yet, while the adoption of the AUTJP constitutes an essential milestones in tackling the legacy of conflict and human rights and international humanitarian law violations, promoting redress for victims and restoring their dignity, and preventing the recurrence of conflict and human rights abuses on the African continent, its efficacy lies in the ability of the AU member states and RECs to implement it.

A number of AU member states, such as the Gambia, have utilized the AUTJP to frame their TJ process and have received technical assistance from the AU and other organisation with expertise in TJ. More countries such as Mali, South Sudan, Sudan, Libya, and Zimbabwe have requested the assistance of the AUC in the implementation of their TJ processes drawing from the AUTJP. The number of requests from state and non-state actors is likely to increase over the next years according to the AUC's ongoing needs assessment in Chad, Mali and South Sudan, and as violent conflicts have only increased in duration, number, and ferocity and have led to waves of displacement which have drained resources and caused domestic instability. Moreover, the global pandemic, caused by the spread of COVID-19 has put peace and democracy under threat, upended systems, and exposed social, political, and economic problems rooted in historical inequality, exclusion, and injustices.

In this context, one of the outcomes of the annual AU-EU Dialogue on Human Rights was precisely to hold a joint dedicated workshop on promoting the AUTJP in Africa. Initially envisaged for 2019, it could however only be organised in early October 2021 with the support of Belgium, and was titled "Building blocks for regional cooperation on TJ". This action shall support the implementation of the AU Roadmap focusing on the following three specific areas: 1) the provision of technical assistance and expertise to AU member states, 2) research and knowledge production and management, and 3) support for civil society engagement in TJ process.

The AUTJP points indeed stresses the importance of providing technical assistance to relevant AU member states to help them uphold and protect the rights of their citizens, to address violations of international humanitarian law, human rights, women rights, and criminal law, and to provide redress to victims through responsive, gender-sensitive, and context-specific TJ initiatives. So far, the AUC has received requests for technical and financial support from South Sudan, Sudan, the Gambia, Mali, Liberia, Ethiopia, Chad, Libya, and Lesotho. With the support of MacArthur Foundation via the African Transitional Justice Legacy Fund (ATJLF), two experts are being seconded for this purpose, one in Addis Ababa and one in Sudan also covering Libya. Additional external assistance would allow the AUC to answers more requests from its Member States and thus to contribute to the design and implementation of domestic TJ strategies and mechanisms and generally reinforce related institutional capacities.

Also, despite a wealth of knowledge and resources available on TJ across Africa, the documentation of comparative experience and connection across contexts remains comparatively light. TJ practitioners, and notably AUC officials, concur on the need to devote more efforts to research and to document lessons learned and best practices, and to contribute to foster exchanges among peers working on TJ in Africa. For this purpose, this action shall be implemented via a direct grant to a consortium made of some of the most active ones reputable and active specialised agencies with demonstrated on-going engagement alongside the AU, to capitalise on their experience and engage them and other partners in the production of complementary authoritative research on a range of emerging TJ themes. Besides, the effectiveness and sustainability of TJ processes largely depend upon their transparency and inclusiveness. Civil Society actors, including women's organizations, local community-based organizations (CBOs) representing minority or interests of persons living in vulnerable situations, need to be able to contribute to decentralized TJ processes and to legitimize them by contributing to building trust among citizens and state authorities. Support in the form of coaching and funding is needed to foster civil society interactions with TJ processes at sub-/national and regional levels. Related interventions should in turn improve the populations' understanding of the AUTJP as well as of other continental frameworks related to human rights and thus facilitate general advocacy efforts in favor of effective transitional justice processes across the continent.

The main stakeholders of the action shall be AU organs, notably the AUC (Department for Political Affairs Peace and Security – PAPS, the Office of the Legal Counsel), the African Commission for Human and People’s Rights – ACHPR, RECs and AU member states’ governments and TJ administrations, as well as African civil society organisations, women rights organisations, human rights defenders, initiatives and platforms, international, African and European NGOs specialised in TJ and peacebuilding and collaborating operationally on TJ with the AU, several RECs and AU member states (such as the International Center for Transitional Justice (ICTJ), the African Transitional Justice Legacy Fund (ATJLF), and the Center for the Study of Violence and Reconciliation (CSV) and African francophone specialised NGOs), African and European research centres, universities and media houses.

- Provide technical assistance to ensure that transitional justice policies and measures promote meaningful justice for sexual-and gender-based violations, address the gendered implications of human rights violations more broadly, and proactively create safe and accessible spaces for the most vulnerable and marginalized groups of victims.
- Facilitate cross-country exchanges to encourage learning and convene the annual Africa Transitional Justice Forum.
- Promote and advocate for availability of resources to enable prompt TJ interventions at all levels in Africa, notably by assisting the implementation of the AU Transitional Justice Fund.
- Support to the AUC in setting up and coordinating platforms to engage African women and youth on TJ at continental level.
- Provide capacity building and training to the stakeholders responsible for TJ at continental, regional and national levels, including staff of truth commissions, Ministries of Justice, National Human Rights Commissions, and National Criminal Jurisdictions.

Partnerships for research and knowledge production

- Undertake comprehensive research on the efficacy of the various TJ mechanisms used in Africa based on case-studies from various AU member states.
- Study sub-regional TJ interventions that promote accountability and reconciliation to address the transnational human rights violations and historical grievances. Notably study how reparation of abuses facilitate the rebuilding of women's lives, obstacles that women face to access justice, and structural issues related to gender-based violations of human rights.
- Undertake a series of additional continental studies on key topics related to TJ in Africa, such as on traditional justice mechanisms, on redressing the violation of economic/social/cultural rights, on the role of the diaspora and that of the private sector, violence against women, etc.)
- Study and document the use of technology in TJ and how it can be leveraged for accountability purpose. Topics to be addressed include opportunities associated with social media to promote women and men citizens' engagement, new technologies for documenting violations of rights, the digitalization of war records and historical crimes, and the creation of virtual memorials, etc.

Activities related to Output 2.2

Knowledge management and sharing

- Support the establishment, functioning and coordination of an African TJ Expert Reference Group (composed of 10-15 experts -minimum 30% women-) responsible for advising on and monitoring the implementation of the AUTJP and serving as a repository of knowledge and comparative experiences on TJ in Africa.
- Support the establishment of a research network focused on the protection and integration of persons living in the most vulnerable situations (such as women, youth, persons with disabilities, internally displaced persons, stateless individuals, and the elderly) within contexts of TJ to assess how vulnerable voices are amplified while offering a platform for stakeholder engagement and continental outreach.
- Convene continental TJ seminars and annual TJ fora.

Activities related to Output 3.1

Partnerships with CSOs for popularising the AUTJP and promoting citizens' engagement

- Activate and strengthen the African civil society community of practice on TJ (including women organisations in order to better identify and advocate for gender-sensitive strategies), and support its engagement with TJ mechanisms at the national regional levels.

- Support the creation of platforms/forums for dialogue between civil society and state actors, including the Annual Transitional Justice Forum.
- Design and execute comprehensive outreach, communications and public diplomacy strategy to build informed understanding of all African stakeholders and citizens of AUTJP and the related human rights legal instruments.

3.3 Mainstreaming

Environmental Protection & Climate Change

Outcomes of the EIA (Environmental Impact Assessment) screening (relevant for projects and/or specific interventions within a project)

The EIA (Environment Impact Assessment) screening classified the action as Category C (no need for further assessment).

Outcome of the CRA (Climate Risk Assessment) screening (relevant for projects and/or specific interventions within a project)

The Climate Risk Assessment (CRA) screening concluded that this action is no or low risk (no need for further assessment)

Gender equality and empowerment of women and girls

As per OECD Gender DAC codes identified in section 1.1, this action is labelled as G1. This implies that a gender perspective will be mainstreamed throughout the Action with a focus on increased participation and leadership of women and girls in decision making, enhance access to justice and build momentum for fundamental women's rights reform. Also, substantial support will be devoted under this Action's third outcome for specific activities aimed at promoting the involvement of women in TJ via specialised CSOs as well as by assisting the AUC to set up and coordinate a dedicated women continental platform on TJ. A systematic assessment of the particular needs and strengths of the different gender and age groups will be undertaken with disaggregated data at all levels. Special attention will thus be paid to their specific vulnerabilities, notably with regards to issues such as SGBV and the protection of LGBTIQ persons of concern. The distinct and complex nature of gender-based crimes will be addressed (i.e: advancing accountability measures for sexual and gender-based violence and confronting impunity).

Human Rights

The Action's core objective is to promote and protect the full respect of the human rights, as well as of non-discrimination principles, of self-determination and in favour of the participation of victims of violations in post-conflict contexts. The Action will engage as much as possible all relevant stakeholders at the local, national, regional and international levels in order to achieve a broad and comprehensive understanding the affected population's situations and needs and encourage their contribution to tailored TJ mechanism, with a focus on women but also on minority communities, those living in the most vulnerable situations and displaced persons. A “Do-No-Harm” approach will be applied that relies on the understanding/analysis of the impact of aid on existing conflicts and its interactions within a particular context, with the goal to limit or prevent unintended negative effects on the social fabric, the economy and the environment. Good governance and human rights will be integrated in all areas of intervention. Capacity building activities of key stakeholders will promote good governance principles with an emphasis on a rights-based approach to assistance to victims of abuses.

Disability

As per OECD Disability DAC codes identified in section 1.1, this action is labelled as D0. This implies that while working on disability-related issues is not a main objective in this action, the specific needs of disabled beneficiaries (including for access to the facilities supported by this project) will be duly assessed and addressed.

Democracy

Abuses against individuals and groups than justify redress via TJ strategies and mechanism in Sub-Saharan Africa can be linked to failings in democratic processes and the state of democratic space in a given country. This action will support the restoration of protection of all democratic rights of the victims.

Conflict sensitivity, peace and resilience

Abuses against individuals and groups than justify redress via TJ strategies and mechanism in Sub-Saharan Africa are directly related to the peace and security situation in the region and affected countries, including as sub-national levels. The action will be further designed and implemented with a conflict sensitivity lens. It will strive to increase peace amongst affected communities and strengthen their resilience in the social, political and economic contexts they live in. For the success of the Action, it is essential that efforts are made to maintain dialogue with local population and ensure sensitization of the community. In some contexts, the action is also expected to address the effects of forced and arbitrary displacement and to contribute to a comprehensive approach to the resolution of violation endured by affected populations.

Disaster Risk Reduction

When appropriate to local affected national and regional contexts, this action shall integrate and promote disaster risk reduction analysis and response.

Lessons Learnt:

- Sustained dialogue between the EU and the AU on human rights, both formal and informal, take place regularly and has demonstrated common interest and commitment toward implementing the AUTJP.
- AUTJP stands out as one of the key new AU policies that has gained substantial traction by the AU and its member states and has already embarked on concrete steps towards its implementation.
- Several EU-funded assistance programme in support to the AU have demonstrated rather low execution rates, especially when directly contributing to the AU/organs' budget because of internal financial and recruitment procedures. More flexible external provision of support via experienced specialised agencies, in agreement with the Department for Political Affairs and Peace and Security of the AUC, can facilitate implementation.
- Public participation is critical to the implementation of context-specific TJ initiatives which are responsive to local dynamics. These elements are emphasized in the AUTJP. Local ownership of TJ is thus vital and key interventions should take place at the national/domestic level.
- Building bridges between state actors at different levels and among and between civil society can help unlock additional resources to support meaningful TJ.
- Sub-granting to local organisations can offer context-specific information and help design relevant approaches to address the legacies of past atrocities and to facilitate the engagement of smaller local representative organisations in favour of inclusivity.
- Strong engagement of women and a solid understanding of how and when violations have affected men and women differently is needed for TJ processes to succeed.
- Youth are increasingly seen as a key factor for success of TJ and should be engaged as agents of change and political actors in their own right

3.5 The Intervention Logic

The underlying intervention logic for this action is that if the capacities of the AU, RECs and national government as well as CSOs are strengthened, thanks to the provision of tailored technical assistance, training, exposure to new research informed by cases studies and lessons learnt and dedicated support for participatory and advocacy activities alongside the appropriate authorities, then a more efficient and effective institutional set up and more active and informed civil engagement (women and men) could emerge to promote and facilitate the implementation of the AUTJP in AU member states, which will contribute to the restoration and protection of the rule of law, good governance and stabilisation in conflict-affected societies.

4 IMPLEMENTATION ARRANGEMENTS

4.1 Financing Agreement

In order to implement this action, it is not envisaged to conclude a financing agreement with the African Union or other AU member states.

4.2 Indicative Implementation Period

The indicative operational implementation period of this action, during which the activities described in section 3 will be carried out and the corresponding contracts and agreements implemented, is 60 months from the date of adoption by the Commission of this Financing Decision.

Extensions of the implementation period may be agreed by the Commission's responsible authorising officer by amending this Financing Decision and the relevant contracts and agreements.

4.3 Implementation Modalities

The Commission will ensure that the EU appropriate rules and procedures for providing financing to third parties are respected, including review procedures, where appropriate, and compliance of the action with EU restrictive measures¹⁰.

4.3.1 Direct Management (Grants)

Grants: (direct management)

(a) Purpose of the grant(s)

The grant(s) shall contribute to the expected results under the following specific objectives:

SO1: Relevant AU organs, RECs and AU Member States develop adequate capacity to implement the AUTJP and design and operate tailored reconciliation and reparation mechanisms.

SO2: Rigorous and relevant knowledge on TJ experiences in Africa is available to inform the design of stabilisation and reconciliation strategies consistent with the AUTJP.

SO3: Strengthen the accountability and popularisation of African TJ mechanisms and ensure wide consultations with the various strides of affected societies, in particular with women and youths.

The Outputs to be delivered via the grant(s) are:

1.1 The provision of demand-driven long-term (embedded) and substantial short-term technical assistance to the AUC, AU organs and RECs, and AU member states.

1.2 The delivery of training and capacity building support via sharing best practices and lessons learnt, notably by dragging from the wealth of African and EU institutional experiences.

2.1 Engagement with partners, such as academic institutions, think tanks and networks of TJ practitioners, to conduct research, produce and document case studies, and develop policy briefs.

2.2 Support knowledge management and sharing activities, and convene international dialogue platforms.

3.1 Partnerships with CSOs, notably the media and local CBOs with constituencies among women and youth, to popularise the AUTJP and encourage women and men citizens' engagement on TJ.

3.2 The provision of support for CSOs to activate citizens' participation in domestic TJ processes and contribute to the monitoring of the AUTJP's implementation.

(b) Type of applicants targeted

The potential applicants for this grant funding are NGOs.

(c) Justification of a direct grant

¹⁰ www.sanctionsmap.eu. Please note that the sanctions map is an IT tool for identifying the sanctions regimes. The source of the sanctions stems from legal acts published in the Official Journal (OJ). In case of discrepancy between the published legal acts and the updates on the website it is the OJ version that prevails.

Under the responsibility of the Commission’s authorising officer responsible, the grant may be awarded without a call for proposals to a consortium of specialised African and European NGOs including the International Center for Transitional Justice (ICTJ), the African Transitional Justice Legacy Fund (ATJLF), the Center for the Study of Violence and Reconciliation (CSVR). Should it proves justified for operational and administrative reasons, separate direct grants could be awarded to these institutions instead of one to a single consortium.

A direct grant to such a consortium is justified because the action has specific characteristics requiring a specific type of beneficiary on account of its technical competence, its high degree of specialisation and administrative powers (in line with Article 195 point f of the Financial Regulation). In particular, the Action’s characteristics (technical assistance and trainings, research, engagement with CSOs/CBOs and media on TJ related issues) require implementing partners with strong technical capacities and clear leadership in the field of TJ in Africa, access to a pool of specific African and European TJ expertise, and established positive collaboration practices on TJ matters with the AU and RECs, as well as demonstrated operational and administrative experience in operating sub-granting mechanisms for CSOs/CBOs’ involvement on TJ. Implementing partners with mentioned characteristic are very limited in number, which is an additional justification to the direct award.

4.3.2 Changes from indirect to direct management mode (and vice versa) due to exceptional circumstances (one alternative second option)

If negotiations with the above-mentioned entities fail, that part of this action may be implemented in indirect management in accordance with the implementation modalities identified in section 4.3.1.

A part of this action may be implemented in indirect management with an entity, which will be selected by the Commission’s services using the following criteria: having a unique/specific mandate and /or role with regards to promoting and protecting human rights, and can demonstrate relevant experience in advising on and implementing interventions related to TJ in Africa such as UNHCR or an EU member state organisation.

4.4 Scope of geographical eligibility for procurement and grants

The geographical eligibility in terms of place of establishment for participating in procurement and grant award procedures and in terms of origin of supplies purchased as established in the basic act and set out in the relevant contractual documents shall apply, subject to the following provisions.

The Commission’s authorising officer responsible may extend the geographical eligibility on the basis of urgency or of unavailability of services in the markets of the countries or territories concerned, or in other duly substantiated cases where application of the eligibility rules would make the realisation of this action impossible or exceedingly difficult (Article 28(10) NDICI-Global Europe Regulation).

4.6 Organisational Set-up and Responsibilities

This action will result in one single contract with a consortium of NGOs as indicated under 4.4.1. Should this option fails, separate contracts could be awarded to carry out the activities under the foreseen specific objectives. A single steering committee will be established composed of the implementing partner, EUD, representatives of the AUC and other AU organs, representatives of RECs and of Governmental entities as appropriate, as well as beneficiaries and other relevant actors as necessary.

Furthermore, at the regional and national levels, implementing partners will be required to liaise with RECs and national/local government authorities and report to the EUD to ensure it is fully kept abreast of progress and developments and can duly participate in visibility activities. For this purpose, implementing partners should set up specific technical committees to address and monitor the operational implementation of activities in support to specific beneficiaries and/or territories.

As part of its prerogative of budget implementation and to safeguard the financial interests of the Union, the Commission may participate in the above governance structures set up for governing the implementation of the action.

5 PERFORMANCE MEASUREMENT

5.1 Monitoring and Reporting

The day-to-day technical and financial monitoring of the implementation of this action will be a continuous process, and part of the implementing partner's responsibilities. To this aim, the implementing partner shall establish a permanent internal, technical and financial monitoring system for the action and elaborate regular progress reports (not less than annual) and final reports. Every report shall provide an accurate account of implementation of the action, difficulties encountered, changes introduced, as well as the degree of achievement of its results (Outputs and direct Outcomes) as measured by corresponding indicators, using as reference the logframe matrix (for project modality) and the partner's strategy, or reform action plan list (for budget support).

The Commission may undertake additional project monitoring visits both through its own staff and through independent consultants recruited directly by the Commission for independent monitoring reviews (or recruited by the responsible agent contracted by the Commission for implementing such reviews).

Roles and responsibilities for data collection, analysis and monitoring:

Each implementing partner will have specific responsibilities for monitoring and reporting under this action. Common indicators will as much as possible be used in order to allow AD wide reporting.

Indicator values will be measured at continental, regional or on a country-by-country basis depending on the nature of the activities.

5.2 Evaluation

Having regard to the nature of the action, a final evaluation will be carried out for this action or its components via independent consultants.

¹¹ Consider that contracts where no financing agreement is concluded, contingencies have to be covered by individual and legal commitments by 31 December of N+1.

It will be carried out for accountability and learning purposes at various levels (including for policy revision), taking into account in particular the fact that support to TJ at continental level with innovative elements related to the engagement of civil society actors via a dedicated sub-granting mechanism bears a pilot dimension for EU support.

The Commission shall inform the implementing partner at least 1 month in advance of the dates envisaged for the evaluation missions. The implementing partner shall collaborate efficiently and effectively with the evaluation experts, and inter alia provide them with all necessary information and documentation, as well as access to the project premises and activities].

The evaluation reports shall be shared with the partner country and other key stakeholders following the best practice of evaluation dissemination¹². The implementing partner and the Commission shall analyse the conclusions and recommendations of the evaluations and, where appropriate, in agreement with the partner country, jointly decide on the follow-up actions to be taken and any adjustments necessary, including, if indicated, the reorientation of the project.

The financing of the evaluation shall be covered by another measure constituting a Financing Decision.

5.3 Audit and Verifications

Without prejudice to the obligations applicable to contracts concluded for the implementation of this action, the Commission may, on the basis of a risk assessment, contract independent audit or verification assignments for one or several contracts or agreements.

6 STRATEGIC COMMUNICATION AND PUBLIC DIPLOMACY

The 2021-2027 programming cycle will adopt a new approach to pooling, programming and deploying strategic communication and public diplomacy resources.

It will remain a contractual obligation for all entities implementing EU-funded external actions to inform the relevant audiences of the Union's support for their work by displaying the EU emblem and a short funding statement as appropriate on all communication materials related to the actions concerned. This obligation will continue to apply equally, regardless of whether the actions concerned are implemented by the Commission, partner countries, service providers, grant beneficiaries or entrusted or delegated entities such as UN agencies, international financial institutions and agencies of EU member states.

However, action documents for specific sector programmes are in principle no longer required to include a provision for communication and visibility actions promoting the programmes concerned. These resources will instead be consolidated in Cooperation Facilities established by support measure action documents, allowing Delegations to plan and execute multiannual strategic communication and public diplomacy actions with sufficient critical mass to be effective on a national scale.

Appendix 1 REPORTING IN OPSYS

An Intervention¹³ (also generally called project/programme) is the operational entity associated to a coherent set of activities and results structured in a logical framework aiming at delivering development change or progress. Interventions are the most effective (hence optimal) entities for the operational follow-up by the Commission of its external development operations. As such, Interventions constitute the base unit for managing operational implementations, assessing performance, monitoring, evaluation, internal and external communication, reporting and aggregation.

Primary Interventions are those contracts or groups of contracts bearing reportable results and respecting the following business rule: ‘a given contract can only contribute to one primary intervention and not more than one’. An individual contract that does not produce direct reportable results and cannot be logically grouped with other result reportable contracts is considered a ‘support entities’. The addition of all primary interventions and support entities is equivalent to the full development portfolio of the Institution.

¹³ ARES \(2021\)4204912 - For the purpose of consistency between terms in OPSYS, DG INTPA, DG NEAR and FPI have harmonised 5 key terms, including ‘action’ and ‘Intervention’ where an ‘action’ is the content (or part of the content) of a Commission Financing Decision and ‘Intervention’ is a coherent set of activities and results which constitutes an effective level for the operational follow-up by the EC of its operations on the ground. See more on the concept of intervention.
