

Stories that matter.

Submit your story by 28 April 2023

31ST ANNUAL
LORENZO
NATALI MEDIA
PRIZE

FAQs

1. Who is eligible to apply for the Prize?

The Prize is open to journalists in the following three categories:

International Prize: for reporting published by a media outlet based in one of the European Union's partner countries.

Europe Prize: for reporting published by a media outlet based in the European Union.

Best Emerging Journalist Prize: open to journalists under 30 for reporting published by a media based in the European Union or in one of its partner countries.

2. How can a journalist submit an entry for the Prize?

Entries must be submitted online through the application form available on the Prize website.

3. Is there a limit to the number of entries that a journalist can submit?

Yes, journalists can submit one entry in one category only.

4. What is the deadline to submit an entry for the Prize?

The deadline to submit an entry for the Prize is April 28, 2023, at 23:59 CET.

5. Can an article of more than 2,300 words be submitted?

The entry of maximum 2,300 words can be an extract from a longer article. Candidates must submit both the extract and a link to the full article. The evaluation will be based on the extract.

6. Can a video or audio work exceed a length of 30 minutes?

The entry of maximum 30 minutes can be an extract from a longer item. Candidates must provide the extract as well as a link to the full item. The evaluation will be based on the extract.

7. Can an entry be submitted in a language other than English?

Yes, entries can be submitted in English, Spanish, German, French or Portuguese. If the entry is not in one of those languages, it is mandatory to submit a translation in one of those languages along with the link to the original reporting. Only this translation will be evaluated.

8. Can an entry that has been published before the eligibility period be submitted?

No, entries must have been published or broadcast between March 10, 2022, and March 9, 2023, to be eligible for the Prize.

9. Can a co-authored entry be submitted?

Yes, entries that have been co-authored are eligible for the Prize, if all co-authors be within the same category and meet the eligibility criteria.

10. Does a journalist receive a confirmation email after applying?

Yes, a confirmation email will be sent to the journalist after applying.

11. Can an article published online in a paid newspaper be submitted for the Prize?

Any article submitted must be freely available online. If the media outlet has a paywall, the submitted article must be outside the paywall.

12. Does the article submitted for the competition have to be published on the website of a media outlet, or can the article submitted for a nomination also have been published in a media outlet that only exists in print?

Being publicly accessible is a requirement of the prize. If an online item entered for the prize is behind a paywall, the paywall has to be removed for the article to be eligible. Items that have only appeared in print, can be submitted in PDF format via a generally accessible link, for example, uploaded to a service like Dropbox or Google Drive, with the permission of the publisher.

#NataliPrize